

The Community of Faith

Rom. 12:9a, 13 Let love be genuine Contribute to the needs of the saints; extend hospitality to strangers

A whole lot of people made this week possible by giving of their time, food, and homes. Except, of course, for the people in Chicago, I had never met them before. It is easy in our day to day lives to think that we are all alone on our journey, but we have a great number of people, both friends and strangers, who are more than willing to help us, simply because they take their faith seriously.

What did you have in common with the many people that you met this week? _

How good are you at "showing hospitality to strangers"? _____

The actions that we are expected to do as Christians should flow out of our love for God, who first loved us. Are there any kinds of people you have more trouble loving than others? Describe. _____

How have you been changed through the experiences on this trip? _____
